This 8-week course teaches parents how to help their children age 4-7 become better at thinking through what to do when things do not go their way. It helps shy children become more assertive and impulsive children become more careful.

Children as young as 4 can learn to think for themselves in ways most of us never thought possible. This course is for parents with children ages 4-7.

Parents learn how to teach your young children to . . .

- Solve their problems and resolve daily conflicts
- Think of ideas and how they might affect other people
- Consider their own feelings and the feelings of others

Parents or caregivers will . . .

- Participate in eight (8) two-hour classes and enjoy time with other parents
- Take home fun activities to help your child learn how to solve problems
- Enjoy and appreciate using this highly effective, positive approach!

The thinking child approach gives children a “thinking” way to resolve their problems. The skills children learn from parents can prevent and reduce early behaviors that could lead to later violence, substance abuse, and depression.

Raising a Thinking Child

"There is much less barking commands and much more helping my child think through a problem.

Now when there is a conflict, instead of it turning into a power struggle, we both stop, think and resolve."
